

The WIIT Charitable Trust

The WIIT Charitable Trust
1707 L Street, N.W., Suite 570
Washington, D.C. 20036

Dear WIIT Member,

Do you find it confusing how importers and exporters buy and sell products and services and how they finance their transactions? Are you unsure of the relationship between U.S. economic policy and international trade?

To get answers to these questions and others, the Women in International Trade (WIIT) Charitable Trust invites you to its third program in a series of Capitol Hill discussions on various aspects of international trade. A group of experts will present a basic overview of the various international trade services that both importers and exporters can avail themselves through U.S. commercial banks. The panelists will discuss commercial bank trade finance products for businesses involved in trade and explain what are letters of credit, documentary collections, export credit insurance, SBA/EXIM working capital and other buyer financing products. A glossary of common International Trade Finance terms will be provided.

Financing Trade 101: The Nuts and Bolts

Featuring:

- John Emens, Vice President, Trade, Finance & Insurance, Export-Import Bank of the U.S.
- Jean Fitzgibbons, Director, Short Term Trade Finance, Export-Import Bank of the U.S.
- Scott Forster, Vice President, Global Trade Sales, SunTrust Bank

Tuesday, April 8, 2008

12:30 - 1: 30 PM EST

Room H-137 Capitol Building

A box lunch will be provided

This is a widely attended, non-partisan presentation

Please RSVP to Marva Hobbs: mhobbs@strtrade.com or (202) 216-9307. And, if you have any questions regarding this and other WIIT Trust programs, please contact Mary Alexander at mka@mkalexander.com or (202) 257-5377.